Miss Booker's Success,

The London Times, in a recent issue, makes a most complimentary mention of the successful debut in London, of Miss Betty Burwell Booker, a mention awakening a thrill of responsive joy and pride in the hearts of many Richmond friends who have known Miss Booker from childhood, and are watching every development of her professional career with the greatest pleasure and interest.

Her first London appearance was at an annual concert given under the direction of Mr. Wilhelm Ganz in the Empress rooms, when she captivated a large audience in several solos which brought out the beautiful quality of her soprano voice, and showed the excellence of the training which she has had.

and showed the excellence of the training which she has had.

Miss Booker's singing subsequently gave great delight at a musical in kwich Sir Clinton and Lady Gawkins were the hosts of the evening. Among the guests on the occasion were Mr. Balfour, Prime Minister of England; Mr. Asquith, the Russian Ambassador; Mr. Joseph Chamberlain the English Colonial Secretary, and Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, of New York.

On the afternoon of Monday, July 13th On the afternoon of Monday, July 13th. Miss Booker was one of a distinguished number of artists who tendered their services in a grand morning concert, taking place at Weinborne House, Arlington Street, London, under the patronage of Queen Alexandra, for the benefit of the Weish Industries' Association. Others who took part with Miss Booker in this concert were: The Countess Valda Gleichen, Lady Deau-Paul, Mrs. George Cornwallis-West, Mrs. George Swinton, Miss Muriel Mison, Miss Katherine Jones, Mr. John Thomas, Harpist to the King; Monsier Hollman, Dr. Lierhammer, Mr. G. Carly-Elwes and the Cymric Choir

Patronesses of the concert included the Duchess of Beaufort, the countess of Powis, the Countess of Dundonald. the Countess of Carrington, the Viscountess Maitland, Lady Eva Wyndham-Quin, Lady Windsor, Lady Mostyn, Lady Penrhyn, Lady Sandhurst, Lady Aberdeen, Lady Dillwyn Liewellyn and others.

Miss Booker will spend the month of August in Switzerland, with Mr. and Mrs. S. Barton French, of New York, Her carcer as a concert singer now seems well assured, though just where her engagements for next season will take her has not yet been definitely deelded. Should she come to America it is probable that she will revisit Richmond, and meet her old friends here agdin. That they would welcome her most warmly goes without the saying.

Miss Martha Mosby Snead, easily and most pleasantly recalled by all Richmond people, entertained the Mendelssohn Music Club delightfully last Friday evening at Careby Hall, the home of Dr. and Mrs. William E. Hatcher, of Fork Union,
